

LC2012 TRIAL ADVOCACY (AY 2021/2022) – EXTERNAL TUTORS' PROFILES

Brief Bio – Mr Ramesh Selvaraj

Mr Ramesh Selvaraj is the Co-Deputy Head in Allen & Gledhill LLP's International Arbitration Practice. His expertise lies in advising across a broad spectrum of contentious work.

Ramesh has acted as lead counsel in both domestic and international arbitrations across various corporate and commercial sectors, including the hospitality, oil and gas, commodities, and construction industries.

Ramesh has a strong professional liability practice, having defended claims in negligence asserted against lawyers, accountants, and architects. He also extensively advises clubs and unincorporated associations on matters of interpretation and application of their constitution / rules and/or by-laws, due process / governance, conduct of meetings, risk management, and all associated matters, including defending litigious claims.

Ramesh has experience advising on administrative law issues for a number of government statutory boards. On the employment law front, he is regularly consulted by employers and employees on their contracts of employment and termination issues, including advising on claims against wrongful dismissal, disciplinary issues, as well as other related employer-employee issues.

Ramesh is presently the Co-Chair of the YSIAC Committee formed under the auspices of the Singapore International Arbitration Centre, and is a member of the Governing Council of the Madras Chamber of Commerce & Industry's (MCCI) Arbitration, Mediation and Conciliation Centre. He is also part of an illustrious alumni of Jessup mooters in Singapore, having served as a member of the NUS Law team in 2004 that emerged runners-up in the prestigious Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition in Washington DC.

Outside of the law, Ramesh is an avid Leeds United FC fan, and a running enthusiast. He is the current Law Society of Singapore Cross-Country convenor.
